An Introduction to Open Source, Open Standards, and Open Access for Librarians
Edward M. Corrado
http://www.tcnj.edu/~corrado/index.html
corrado@tcnj.edu

This talk liberally borrows from the following article in Issues in Science and Technology Librarianship:

Other Suggested Readings:

Eisen, M. Publish and be praised: why it's high time the results of scientific research were freely available to everyone? The Guardian: Oct. 9, 2003. http://education.guardian.co.uk/higher/research/story/0,,1058741,00.html

Blogs:

The Consortiuminfo.org Standards Blog: http://consortiuminfo.org/newsblog/
Groklaw: http://www.groklaw.net/
Open Access News: http://www.earlham.edu/~peters/fos/fosblog.html
Planet Code4lib (Syndication of blogs from people who code (often OSS) for libraries: http://planet.code4lib.org/